THE PARADOXISM
IN ALL FIELDS OF KNOWLEDGE

It took me ten years to collect all these texts dealing with the paradoxism, since I came to America, reading more than one thousand envelopes stuffed with manuscripts. They followed me at my address, often changed upon my job, in Phoenix and Tucson (Arizona) or in Gallup (New Mexico). I tried to answer each letter sending information on the paradoxism and also paradoxist diplomas where it was the case. Now I congratulate all these 100 writers who contributed to this anthology with poems, prose, dramas, essays, letters. This is an international fan on the dimensions of the paradoxism, twenty years after its setting up.

Thanks to the widest spread reference publications, such as Literary Market Place, Poet’s Place, Ulrich’s Directory of Periodicals, Gale Group, EBSCO’s Directory, Dustbooks, R.R. Bowker the paradoxism became well-known to the international literary community, especially to North America and Western Countries. Working as a computer programmer and then as a software engineer for a large corporation like Honeywell, between 1990-1995, we the employees, circulated through e-mail the paradoxism in engineering. For example, look at these Top 20 Engineers’ Terminologies from Bertolucci’s “The Sheltering Sky”:

1. A NUMBER OF DIFFERENT APPROACHES ARE BEING TRIED - We are still pissing in the wind.
2. EXTENSIVE REPORT IS BEING PREPARED ON A FRESH APPROACH TO THE PROBLEM - We just hired three kids fresh out of college.
3. CLOSE PROJECT COORDINATION - We know who to blame.
4. MAJOR TECHNOLOGICAL BREAKTHROUGH - It works OK, but looks very hi-tech.
5. CUSTOMER SATISFACTION IS DELIVERED ASSURED - We are so far behind schedule the customer is happy to get it delivered.
6. PRELIMINARY OPERATIONAL TESTS WERE INCONCLUSIVE - The dam thing blew up when we threw the switch.
7. TESTS RESULTS WERE EXTREMELY GRATIFYING - We are so surprised that the stupid thing works.
8. THE ENTIRE CONCEPT WILL HAVE TO BE ABANDONED - The only person who understood the thing quit.
9. IT IS IN THE PROCESS - It is so wrapped up in red tape that the situation is about hopeless.
10. WE WILL LOOK INTO IT - Forget it! We have enough problems for now.
11. PLEASE NOTE AND INITIAL - Let’s spread the responsibility for the screw up.
12. GIVE US THE BENEFIT OF YOUR THINKING - We’ll listen to what you have to say as long as it doesn’t interfere with what we’ve already done.
13. GIVE US YOUR INTERPRETATION - I can’t wait to hear this bull!
14. SEE ME or LET’S DISCUSS - Come into my office, I’m lonely.
And now hear this Indian tale, more than 25 years old joke, that ends in a... mathematical formula!

Once upon a time, somewhere in North America, an Indian chief and his squaw had a son. Being the first child, it was born on the hide of an elk.

Eventually a second son was born, of the chief’s next squaw, this time on the hide of a cougar.

When he was getting older, the chief got married a third time, with a very capricious squaw who also became pregnant. She insisted that her child could only be born of the hide of a hippopotamus. You can well imagine the great voyage of the Indian chief, by pony, by canoe, walking and so on to Africa whence he returned in time with a hippopotamus hide. His third child, also a son, was then born on this hide.

The other two sons were jealous of the new child, and they set out to kill him. The mother fought so valiantly that she saved her son and died in the effort, having killed the two “would-be murderers”. Since then, whenever his tale is told by the tribal elders, they point out that:

“THE SQUAW ON THE HIPPOPOTAMUS WAS EQUAL TO THE SONS OF THE SQUAWS ON THE OTHER TWO HIDES”

What do you think about the famous Murphy’s Laws, very well moulded on the paradoxism in society? Or about the romanian prose writer Negruzzi (19th century) with his short story “Alexandru Lăpușneanu” (“If you don’t want me, I want you!”), or the Italian humanist poet Petrarca (14th century) with his love antinomies, or the ancient Greek poets and playwrights (before Jesus Christ): Pindar, Homer, Sophocles, Euripides? There is, perhaps, no creator not having used at least an antithesis or a paradox in his or her work - because the paradoxes bring something of relish, of curiosity, of incitement.

What do you think about the paradoxes in mathematics and physics (called “exact” sciences!) that researchers could not solve?

The paradoxist texts have a meaning, encoded in multiple cases, the reader needs first to find the key of understanding therefore, no way to label them dadaist if he or she does not penetrate their significance. They are neither surreal, because are not based on dreams or metaphysics, nor cubist, because are not focusing on geometrisation.

The paradoxism is the last avant-garde movement of the second millennium.

Besides its focus on oppositions which are organically mixed in order not to be oppositions anymore, the paradoxism is based very much, as any avant-garde movement, on experiments and innovations. Also, the paradoxism tries connections between remote field of knowledge, and takes ideas against the hair in counter-sense, or re-interpret them upside down. That’s why many times paradoxism is in good neighbourhood with the humor and the puzzle. "The paradoxism proposed to prove the possibility of generalizing the literary work to a "without limits" multiplicity (...), including for this heterogeneous elements" (Titu Popescu).

Readers, attempt to bring in literature, art, philosophy, even science assertions against the common belief, against the mainstream. Explore the unexplored! Do not go with the crowd. Encroach upon conventions and petrified knowledge and feelings. The common sense is trivial, try the uncommon sense. THINK DIFFERENT!

de fidulie.
din naștere ea fiind ciuruită...
lăzidul văscos
-l-ați pierdut pe drum...
când v-ați stabilit
in oază!

n-ați mai existat.
De aceea;
când conjugăți ori declinați
apelați la verbe
moarte în cărți
îar dacă verbul-și țers,
nu mai existați.
de fapt, nici n-ați fost
decât umbra cîtulilor
cu spini tocîti
pierduți prin răsarît.
vreți să vă impuneți
prin neexistență
anulând verbul

Learn nothing on days
That will show hate
One’s mind on the relay
But share with one’s faith.

PARADOX

The passed-on have not passed on the living are not alive
soon the time will come when time will not be
and the complete will be incomplete
the end has begun continuance is discontinued
the truthful lie
the lying prove true
they are coming
but they won’t stay long soon be gone
and what is this heaven
which men call hell?
it is the life we live
the death we die
the future is past
the past not come
and as for the present
it is absent
and all is nothing
nothing is all love is a hateful thing
the straight is crooked
the crooked straight and the real paradox is that there is no paradox

Lorsque le poigne de l’horreur
commence à l’étrangler, s’échappent encore quelques mots
et leurs contraires.
Quand la main de l’infâme
s’enfonce dans ta gorge
quelques signes entament la révolte, l’équation se brise
et la figure géométrique éclate à la gueule de l’endormi.
Lorsque l’horrible se croit vainqueur
le dernier mot se faufile encore:

jusqu’à ce que ton ultime silence
hurle à jamais
et pulvérise
tout autre silence indifférent.

DESPRE PARADOXISM

Din capul locului trebuie să remarcăm că cel mai fertil și util teren al cunoașterii este cel al paradoxismului - <adevăruri socante> care ne cutremură cu diverse grade de tărâie pe "scara Richter". Orice adevăr nou care contrastează cu antrenamentul nostru intuiționist anterior, îl numim în general "paradox". Orice situație în care suntem surprinși de un astfel de contrast, o numim "paradoxală". Cu cât terenul cunoașterii noastre înaintează în spații de dimensiune superioară (izomorfe în esență cu un IR^n, n>4), cu atât șocul noilor descoperiri este mai "delicat" și mai "puternic". Sensul lui "puternic" trece ușor, pe nesimțite, de la cotidian la subtilitatea armoniei christice care supune natura inferioară prin iubire pură.

Limbajul pe care-l folosim pentru descrierea unor astfel de subtilități, trebuie în mod necesar să evolueze în complexitate și nuanță, trecind tot pe nesimțite în spațiul poetic al metaforelor. Nu este de mirare ca cea mai paradoxală carte din lume este Biblia. Utilizând limbajul simplu pentru descrierea unor adevaruri superioare, se ajunge (paradoxal) la contraste și contradicții la nivel formal. Iată un exemplu din multe altele: "Fiindcă atit de mult a iubit Dumnezeu lumea, câ a dat pe singurul Lui Fiu, pentru ca oricine credă în El, să nu piară, ci să aibă viața vecinăciă." (Ioan 3,16). Compară cu: "Nu iubiți lumea, nici lucrurile din lume. Dacă iubește cineva lumea, dragostea Tatălui nu este în el." (I Ioan 2,15)

Pentru un spirit inferior, cele două citate de mai sus pot constitui un "puternic" motiv de a combate Biblia. Lumea de azi (ca și cea de ieri) este plină de "teologi" și "atei" afășați la începutul evoluției lor spirituale. Pentru un spirit superior (realmente superior), cele două citate de mai sus nu fac altceva decât să se completeze reciproc. "Cerul și pământul vor trece, dar cuvintele Mele nu vor trece niciodată" - spunea Domnul Iisus (Matei 24,35). Ce sunt de fapt bietele noastre cuvinte?...!

Neincetat va trebui să ne luptăm cu dimensiunile spațiilor superioare, cucerindu-le treptat cu multă răbdare.

Nu putem rămâne deci la 'starea Wittgenstein': "whereof one cannot speak, thereof one must be silent". Și-arte, metafizica ști extinde drumul ei paradoxal și "discutabil" pe tărîmul spațiilor superioare. "By recognizing the diversity of the functions of language, Wittgenstein inevitably altered the task of philosophy" - spune Samuel Stumpf.

Un om
Un om trist privește
Pe fereastră, departe
Un om departe este,
Dincolo de o fereastră.
Omul departe este
Și departe și este
Privire fără privit.

Un om încolăcit
În jurul axei sale,
În jurul privirii sale
Care nu poate depăși
Fereastra fereastră
Spre afară.
Și nu se poate depăși
Și nu se poate.

Singurătatea arcului
Într-o dimineață mai înspre scară stelele străluceau/pălaș și nu se vedeau și eu am pierdut buletinul de identitate. Pomii se aruncau în brațele mele și ploua și nu. Era o despărțire, era o rupere în mine, pe lingă tine, departe.
Înfrunziseră pomii și cădeau frunzele. Frumos, dar nu știa nimeni.
Cineva mi-a atras atenția.
Mergeam în echilibru pe dunga dintre timp și spațiu.
Atunci s-a prezentat la mine un personaj fără nici o înșușire și mi-a cerut cheile de la apartament. Parca ar fi fost trimis de cineva și acum el își îndeplinea o obligație de serviciu.
Înțelegeți, fără nici o înșușire. Fără cheie, fără să pară bun sau râu, fără înșușirea de a nu avea o înșușire. Se gândea la mine cu lama.

Lunar and Solar Eclipses

It is so touching to see total eclipses!

At a lunar eclipse,
it is normal that the Earth,
a bigger body,
Shades the Moon.

But a solar eclipse,
it is a paradox that the Moon,
a smaller body,
Shades the Sun.

Every place in space gives birth to a different vision.

Holţul de cumpărător vrea prea mult spunînd că munca nu poate supravieţui fără el.
Minuni peste noapte nu vor fi,
dar se deschid expoziţii
de minuni făcute peste zi.
Opoziţia iubeşte puterea, scriu ziarele,
şi cîmpurile rămîn neînsămiţate.
Însămiţate, de cine?!
În Europa vom aluneca într-o zi,
vor trece ani;
câzută pe jos,
cea mai bună faină se face gunoi.
Ironsia scurtează coada la lapte,

• “Omul e animalul care gândeste”, gândi un animal.
• “Măsura tuturor lucrurilor este omul” zise chefliul care întrecuse măsura.
• “Toate curentele sociale generoase pornesc de la știință, literatură, învățătură, numai curentul electric pornește de la hidrocentrală”, constată electricianul.
• “A trăi înseamnă a fi angajat”, iși aminti sinucigașul, rupând fișa de angajare.
• Un barman către comisia de control care-l acuza de falsificarea băuturilor alcoolice: “Urgăți-mă, dar nu mă suspecțați”.
• “Eu sunt puțin din tot ce se întâmplă”, iși zise papagalul poliglot.
• “Și totuși, se învârte”, constată el, gândindu-se la vecinul, șomer, care-și cumpără o mașină nouă.
• “Este mult mai plăcut să dai decât să primești”, gândi pugilistul.
• “Nu trebuie niciodată să îți se pară ceva cu nepuțință”, a exclamat o maimuță care-și propusese să devină om.
• “Ironia e pudoarea umanității”, afirmă unul care se credea pudic și astfel suportă cu resemnare ironia oricui.
• “Singura carte perfectă o scriam eu, dacă puteam”, zise analfabetul.
• “Ascultă cu plăcere și nu vorbi mult”, îl povâțui soacra pe ginere.

Negative as opposite poles, a magnetic force that exceeds the limit of perception, the forced hot air that clings inside a veined wrist, slit at the heart where blood leaks inside core reactors, hissing where the liquids touch the mass.

antiphonal

Jumbled as chorus of affected voices, the tumescent, clouding of storms, the havocking reek of festered swamps, that place inside reason where thought goes to hibernate, reclusive as memory and barbarous as the unspoken words.

dis(possessed)

Calcified as concrete mix leaking through viscous ceiling caves, formative moldings shadows grow in disentropic, seeking the life force latent within the dark.

PENCICTS- The neurotic behaviour of chewing pencils.

CURLIPHOBIA- The fear of being seen in the grocery stores with curlers in the hair. Most common among housewives.

YOUBELPUBPHOBIA- The fear a parent has of their child burping in public.

FABAPHOBIA- The fear of eating beans, in suspicion that it will make one fart.

SUITCOLKA- The paint that dries on clothing after painting a house.

GREASEBANDED- The hair grease which exist around the interior band of a hat.

QUADOUCH- THE swell on a head caused by a hardhit golfball.

YELLOW PAGES GRAFFITI- The graffiti on the cover of the Yellow Pages.

SCIFF- The dust that covers the screen of millions of household televisions.

CANNIBALISTIC LITERARIANS- People who read way too much, then on top of that, are not satisfied with farm animal meat, and consuming human meat.

SHOOPING- When a person is in a shoe store, takes off their worn shoes and then put on another pair of shoes, and after doing so they leave their old pair of shoes behind and exit the store.

WASHDOLLAR- A dollar bill that has been through the rinse cycle one too many times.

INK-ELBOW- The ink that transfers onto an elbow after reading the newspaper.

Sulfur dioxide moon:
Smogged stars:
Maced trees.
Like the product of a chemical or top of Noah's ark.
Germ warfare by alien beings. Oxigen masks: breathing propaned:
Poisoned pedals: flouride fly ash:
Woochoa prays daily and does the Automobiles smoking more than cigarettes:

Goyahklay shoots a war cry by the southern headwaters of the Gila River.

X-ray or Mercury fish:

Wolf cusses and swears along the Humboldt River!

Acid Rain:

Shalako frowns on top of Thunder Mountain. Satsia screams by the Washaka River!

A Ph. D. in PCB and PBB magna cum laude!

A.M.O.A.

We are writing you this in strict confidence, and hope you will honor the vulnerability of our situation if you were to decide to disclose this anyone. We'll get right to it by telling you our membership card, which is printed: Affiliated Moderates Of America really stands for Affiliated Mediocrities Of America. Our secret handshake is the regular, confident one followed quickly by three light pats on the right shoulder, as though it were an afterthought. The purpose of A.M.O.A. - and this you'll appreciate soon - is to forget the pretense that we are something special, that we have some talent or skill which thousands (or millions) of other common, ordinary human beings do not have. We are, in fact, mediocrities. And in our meetings all false facade, and disguise, dissipates. We let go. We relax. We blessedly become what we really are: ordinary folks. For a few precious hours each month we are free of the tension of pretending to be that which, clearly, we are not. This has a restorative quality that A.M.O.A. gives to people like you, and people like us. You may find it surprising how many professionals persons are longstanding members of A.M.O.A. - doctors, lawyers, college professors and such. And all of us tell the same sad story in one manner or another; how we were pressured by status, or necessity; into becoming a someone! You know, maybe two hundred years ago some of us might have become swashbuckling son-of-guns! But now, in this world, we have to do what we have to do. So we keep up a front; we send our children to the best schools; we socialize with the right crowd... but here is the difference: we are always honest with ourselves at A.M.O.A. We know we are ordinary, simple people. We know we are mediocrities. And it is this very knowledge that gives us the inner contentment we wouldn't exchange for all the tea in China. Yes, again we repeat we are happy as plain mediocrities, and we hope Bill, that you will join us in our warm camaraderie; because, Bill, you know, we know, who you are... you are (and there is no greater compliment) like the sun's sunshine shining on a common, ordinary day! Bill, please do not be disturbed by a soon-to-be slow crumbling of this letter and envelope into common, ordinary household dust. We only do this for your protection. And another thing, Bill - if you should decide not to join us at A.M.O.A... how could a simple persons like ourselves know for sure whether the same fate of shame and embarrassment suffered by poor ol' Jim Thomson - the ruin of his Dental Practice, it drove him out of town with his head hung low, and his tail between his legs - might not happen to somebody else? We'll see you, Bill, this coming Monday, 7:00 P.M., sharp.

hi noon at the wall such a nice day to watch silly springfield balance donuts for kicks along for the ride/cher walks into a diner at 3 am in mourning orders green eggs & ham & watches for sonny bono who will enter from the ceiling slinging tomato breath for children of all ages along the way he bumps into santa clause at a peep show “on my way to santa fe” “let me help you with your shoes” “there’s nothing in rabbit’s feet, it’s only a grave miscalculation” and off he goes with a wealthy school girl to commit incest somewhere between pancake heaven and the empire state building/the little boy selling flowers to portable nuns on ninth street takes his clothes off for a new car showing them that all things are equal when you happen to work at a gas station sometimes they don’t notice but oftentimes they notice they don’t notice that you’re noticing them notice-all well at least there’s water in the shoehorn percy mayfield refilled it yesterday on an emergency boat rendezvous he’s been good to me at times but there have been weeks when he forgot he was supposed to come and I had to electrocute the tractor before mother got home “boy if she caught you!” “hey you’re the one who’s late buddy” in order to get to the downtown station we had to fight through the many layers of daylight peeling our way through empty bananas/still waiting for a guitar from garcia lorca t.s. eliot hands down a moon pie with fish fillet icing to a blind girl from jersey said she’s been there but never been nowhere special except on holidays when her grandmother whacks her little brother with spaghetti newspapers to find out what’s going on in the world/president clinton “aw hell he’s innocent man let the man go before he grieves his way to stardom” I could see this things on a miniseries sometime only with shakes beer playing himself he does it so well you know nobody does it better “so cher” “she does doesn’t she” sometimes when I’m alone I like to think I’m nobody special but when I wake up I still have to pay a cover to be admitted into my own birthday/even my graduation was free

she you next week. hope everything’s kosher by then if you see sonny tell him it’s o.k. to cry I did it once and I didn’t die till the next weekend when someone spotted me on the train.
just let him know spelling is optional, o.k.? we aren’t 2 or 3 or 4 here only 5 or 6 or 7 for matter occasionally 8. Its been real/don’t work too hard it makes you look dull.

Dear "Paradoxism" journal and Paradoxism Association,

Finding innovative, original works is an arduous task for a member of our culture. People are presented with what others think they should like. Friday night's executives are making sure people are "Happy meal'd" without straws and stay closed minded; they feel that people are shallow and that they do not want to think for themselves. People obviously do have the capacity to think for themselves and cultivate and keep an open mind, but in order to do this they need to be presented with ideas and works from outside the mainstream and controlling empires. When I finished this book¹, certain mainstream publishers declined to publish it, many said that people would not want to read it because "people don't want to think for themselves". I then heard about your smashing press and the respect and vision you have to new literature. I am thoroughly convinced that this is a press that doesn't cater to putting out generic, predictable books. I am very interested in your press and the quality work it aims to put out. I could hardly care about money in regards to literature and other arts.

O, Mamă, mă simt copleșit de dor et j'espère que tu ne m'aime plus encore more than you did before the time I was forced to be born

O, Mamă, mă simt tulburat, sunt doar tânăr.
since I have thought of you as a killer of my best brothers and sisters qui ont été forcé de fuir ou ont été détruit sans résistance.

O, Mamă, mă-ntrebi de ce-am plecat?
Parce que tu m'avait condamné à ce départ feeding me with the milk of hatred, plotting to be robbed of life's happiness falling apart

O, Mamă, va trebui oare să înțeleg cât voi trăi votre frivole douceur qui avait accepté le Diable Rouge et puis, growing fear, exiling liberty,
embraced the trashmen and the loss of dignity?

O, Mamă, de-ai și ce mult aș vrea să pot vorbi
cu tine,
mais le sacré respect pour ma langue
m'empêche d'exprimer freely my thoughts about hate and disgrace.
O, loving, mother, pays adoré!

Dear Dr. Smarandache:

Around early spring of '99 I was doing some research on the internet at a friends house in Maryland. During a break I was in the literature section, and was trying to find some information on any paradoxist literature, presses, pamphlets, recent movements, etc. I came across your name and movement, which in-turn led to discovering your site, and revealed an entirely new yet somehow instinctive arena of which I have subconsciously been a part of within my writing for sometime now.

I read through your pages with conviction, and began a progression in literature that I previously thought was impossible, residing in a small town on the shores of Maryland, where the only literature available was in every way mainstream and non 'instinctive, non 'fertile, and in immediate need of the revolutionary forms of poetry you speak of.

IGNORANT OF THE CAUSE
(play in one impossible act)

The Characters:

The Professor X (elderly)
Teaching Assistant A (Young)
Teaching Assistant B (Young)
The Voice of Destiny (fateless)

Scenery:
A room with two doors: one on the left, the other on the right. The latter holding a notice that reads: "The Salon of Destiny". In the back, slightly towards the right, in a terrace. Professor X is sitting at his desk, drawn in treaties. Spectacle sit on the tip of his nose.
Enter Assistant A.

Assis. A: Professor X, you're expected at the conference!
Prof. X: (Mumbling) What conference?
Assis. A: About inner points operations.
Prof. X: (Puzzled) Inner points operations...?
Prof. X: I don't understand. What gazette?
Assis. A: The wall gazette, "Mathematicus".
Prof. X: I haven't heard of a gazette by that name. I'm a physician.
Assis. A: But you've been working on it for ten years. You're the Editor in Chief.
Prof. X: I think there's been some confusion.
Assis. A: Aren't you Professor X?
Prof. X: Well, yes, I am.
Assis. A: Well, then?
Prof. X: I have never in my life been Editor of Journals.
Assis. A: Then, Sport Editor.
Prof. X: I don't recall it.

The mailman rings the bell and brings the Professor a letter. The assistant reads it enthusiastically.

Assis. A: "Dear Professor. I have the pleasure of informing you that your work 'Axioms: Rules About Inner Points Operations' has been approved by our censorship staff.
Prof. X: (Frowns in puzzlement)
Assis. A: Can you believe how modest a scientist of his fame can be? Although the importance of his discoveries is overwhelming, the professor considers it as nothing.
Prof. X: I have nothing to say. I don't know what it is about.
Assis. A: Sensational! What he wants to say is that he fears his work was nothing, but his research is only the beginning.
Prof. X: I tell you, I genuinely know nothing!
Assis. A: Certainly no one can say they know something when this something is particularly complex. You can’t cover it’s entirely in one breath. Every second a new discovery is being made! Therefore, you cannot have complete knowledge. While you acknowledge one thing, another is being published. lately, I have received, from the editorial office, lots of materials, and it falls to me the pleasant task of deciphering 15% of the work. Your paper is ingenious and open. Therefore, it may suit the taste of our readers. All goes under your review.
Prof. X: So, then I’ve written these Axioms? Rules?
Assis. A: Surely, I was by your side.
Prof. X: (More confused)

(Entering Teaching Assistant B)

Assis. B: The audience is waiting for us! C’mon professor!
Assis. A: Let’s go.

(Both assistants take the professor by the arms and lead towards the terrace. From outside, the noise of the conference can be heard. The three characters stands with their backs to the audience.)

Assis. B: (Addressing invisible crowd) Professor X will now talk about the importance of his Axioms. Let’s let him speak!
Assis. A: (To Assis. B) What exhausting work. The professor doesn’t talk enough about those prints until he calculates the matter completely.
Assis. B: He is showing a tremendous amount of zeal.
Professor X: I haven’t worked in the least for this paper.
Assis. A: (To the crowd) Unbelievable! Totally effortless, he creates a work of genius!
Prof. X: And it is of no interest to me!
Assis. B: Of course, if a minimum amount of work is sufficient to finish it!

(Both assistants bow in front of the crowd. The three then face the audience. A delivery man brings the newspaper in.)

Assis. A: (Reading the newspaper) Professor! Your scientific conference has been published on the first page!
Assis. B: (Takes the newspaper) Let me see! Another accomplishment you cannot acknowledge, due to the others.
Prof. X: I don’t even know what Axioms are - Assis. A: Professor X has so deeply studied this term that in the end he’s gone beyond the boundaries of just one word.
Prof. X: My skill is entirely different.
Assis. B: About professor’s encyclopedia culture, we shall talk on another occasion.
Prof. X: And namely about non-special forces - Assis. A: It is difficult to state in these days you are specialist in a simple field. Only an imposter may say it.
Assis. B: The points the professors was talking about were interior, you have heard!
Prof. X: So they might be, but I must commit myself. Was this a called conference?
Assis. B: (Reading) Today in the room of the University of Science, our distinguished Professor X has spoken on the famous Axioms of Inner Points. We further reproduce the discussion of the honorable professor - Assis. A: Read a bit slowly.
Assis. B: Axioms of Inner points... (Pause) I have nothing to tell you. I don’t know what it is about. I genuinely know nothing! Not at least what these axioms are. I haven’t the slightest notion, and I do not perceive it properly. I have an entirely different skill, and namely about special forces. So it might be, but I do not commit myself. I haven’t worked in the least on this paper. And it is of no interest to me whatsoever!
Assis. A: Our research has been complete. You have demonstrated to them exactly what was needed.
Prof. X: Rubbish!
Assis. B: (Reaching his towards the professor) Our sentiments of deep respect.
Assis. A: And the crowd appreciates you at the open stage.
Prof. X: I still believe you are joking -
Prof. X: That it was only a force - Assis. B: We feel that you are too tired from so much research. We advise you to get some rest for a few hours.
Prof. X: But I am not tired. You are confusing me!
Assistants: Please accept our apologies.

(Exit both assistants. The bell rings, and the mailman appears with another letter)

Prof. X: (Read the letter) Dear Professor. Regretfully, we bring your knowledge your paper ‘Axioms: Rules About Inner Points’ has not been approved by our censorship staff. Lately we have received lots of materials at our editing office, and it falls to me the unpleasant task of rejecting 85% of these materials. Your paperwork is too technical and hermetic. Therefore, it is not suited to the public taste. (Saddened) I think someone is taking the mickey out of me. I’m going to speak with the Dean.

(He leaves and knocks on the door to the Dean’s office)

The Voice: Come in!

(The professor enters. The following dialogue takes place behind the door the door.)

The Voice: Get in man!
Prof. X: I’ve entered.
The Voice: Come in at least!

(The professor leaves and comes back in again.)
Prof. X: I’ve entered again!
The Voice: Get out! How dare you come in twice when others never enter?
Prof. X: But you know I went out and then returned.
The Voice: Get out again, but this time forever!
Prof. X: First I would like to tell you why I’m here.
The Voice: Man, go away from my life. Forever!
Prof. X: I would like -
The Voice: GET OUT!
Prof. X: Thank you. (He comes back on stage and sits at his desk)

(Enter teacher assistant A) Assis. A: Professor X, it has begun an interesting scientific lecture.
Prof. X: (Indifferently) What kind of lecture?
Assis. A: About non-special forces -
Prof. X: (Satisfied) Yes, the non-special forces - Assis. A: The famous proper work of Professor X. “Lineal Vectors of the Non-Special Forces”, published last year in the review.
Prof. X: This is my paperwork -
Assis. A: Excuse me if I contradict you, but you are a mathematician while this paper is a work of physics.
Prof. X: A mathematician?
Assis. A: As always.
Prof. X: I don’t believe it. Possibly it might be an error?
Assis. A: The review called it Physicus.
Prof. X: But it seems to me that I was.
Assis. A: Oh! That was 30 years ago when your father was alive.
Prof. X: I don’t remember.

(Enter assistant B in a hurry)
Assis. B: Let’s hurry up sirs, we are losing our seats.
Assis. A: Is the professor invited too?
Assis. B: Surely, as a spectator.
Prof. X: Spectator at my own achievement?
Both Assistants: Let’s go!

(They all leave through the left side)

Scenery:
Many chairs fill the stage. The lecture begins. The stage is in silence. From time to time, the professor stands and states:
- That isn’t true. This theorem, I have discovered it!
- You lie without shame! You lie! The result belongs to me. I have even a lecture for the device of measure and control of the non-special forces, as well as other important answers on the same topic!

(Both assistants hide in shame when the professor makes an outburst. Each grab a hold of his arms and pull him down, saying):
- Just keep quiet! Don’t interrupt with your ideas!
- Sit down Professor X! You are a bit ill.
- It is useless to protest. Nobody believes you. The die has been thrown as the Masters wanted.

(Later, professor X leaves the amphitheatre numb and confused)

Prof. X: I shall have go again for a hearing with the Dean.

(He heads for the door on the right side of the stage and opens it)

The Voice: Get out!
Prof. X: But I haven’t entered yet.
The Voice: Get out at once!
Prof. X: To get out must first enter.
The Voice: Don’t bother me! GET OUT!

(The professor closes the door and falls to the ground. Both assistants then stand and applaud the end of the lecture)
- le poète: avec timidité frappe trois fois à la porte. On ne le voit pas. Parce que personne ne répond, il ouvre. C'est un nain.
- la secrétaire: tape toujours à une énorme machine à écrire, qui est deux fois plus haute que le poète, et trois fois plus large, placée sur le plancher. Donc, elle va d'un bout à l'autre de la machine, pour appuyer sur les touches, parfois avec ses pieds, ses coudes, sa tête, ou bien des coups de poing. Sa façon de faire rappelle une danse mécanique, rythmique.
- le poète: Bonjour, mademoiselle.

(Pause pénible. Elle paraît n'avoir rien entendu.)
- la secrétaire: Depuis longtemps, je ne suis plus mademoiselle.

(II rougit.)
- le poète: Excusez-moi! Vous... madame... (Le même jeu.)
- la secrétaire: Depuis longtemps, je ne suis plus madame! (Pause pénible.) Je m'appelle "L'Association Anonyme d'Assurances pour la Gloire".
- le poète (donné): Donc, si vous êtes anonyme, vous n'avez pas de nom!??
- la secrétaire: Mais si! Mon nom se confond avec celui de l'Association Anonyme. Que désirez-vous?
- le poète: Madame... Association... signez-moi, je vous prie, ces papiers. (Il les sort de sa serviette.)
- la secrétaire: Je n'ai pas de signature! Il fallait plutôt revenir plus tard.
- le poète: Pardonnez-moi! Pourquoi?
- la secrétaire: Interrogez-vous vous-même!
- le poète: Moi, je n'ai aucune interrogation. Savez-vous, je suis poète. Cela ne point pour l'amour de l'arte, mais pour l'art de l'amour! Et..., je pourrais vous dédier quatre vers immortels...
- la secrétaire: Merci, je n'en ai pas besoin. Mieux vaut quatre vers d'un service à thé! Ils seraient plus palpables.
- le poète: Je vous avoue la foi de non foi, une seule fois. Au début, j'avais écrit une demande pour monsieur le directeur de l'Association Anonyme d'Assurance pour la Gloire. Ulterieurement, j'ai appris qu'il était mort.
- la secrétaire: Ca ne fait rien. Vous avez la possibilité de lui envoyer la lettre, de la poursuivre dans sa tombe... Il recevra bien votre lettre et regrettera bien le temps perdu avec vous... Monsieur le directeur exigeait toujours le pourboire comme le pourmanger, et bien sur, après le pourpisser.
- le poète: Je lui aurais servi une petite casse-croûette, et du casse-poitrine, ensuite une casse-rolle et une casse-mine.
- la secrétaire: Et pour deboucher la bouteille, le tire-bouchon n'est pas?
- le poète: Vous-avez jusqu'à trois heures raison: tire-balle, tire-bouchon, tire-langue,
tire-pantalon!

Mais non, sans pantalons... (La secrétaire rit.)
- la secrétaire: Qui? Monsieur le directeur?
- le poète: Mais oui! Avec pantalons...
- la secrétaire: Décidez-vous! Votre réponse sera mise en question.
- le poète: Oh, la, la! Ma bonne occasion est méchante. Madame Association Anonyme, voilà ma prière envers la gloire. L'on m'a accusé de vol, alors que je suis une homme digne. Oui, on m'a soupçonné d'avoir pris les malheurs de mon collègue. Parce que les autres avaient des alibis, la suspicion est tombé sur la tête d'une individu insoupçonné, c'est-à-dire... moi... (il pleure). L'on m'a considéré comme une voleur.
- la secrétaire: Voulez, voulez. Mais intelligemment...
- le poète: Croyez-moi, madame Association, je ne veux pas le malheur des autres!
- la secrétaire: Mais les avez vous pris tous, absolument tous?
- le poète: Je ne suis pas égoïste... J'en laisse pour mon collègue, pour mon voisin, voyez-vous?
- la secrétaire: Oui, je vois... c'est-à-dire j'entends.
- le poète: Voyez-vous, pardon entendez-vous?
- la secrétaire: Oui, j'entend, mais pas assez bien. Car, j'ai souffert d'une otite...
- le poète: Moi, j'ai eu une grande, mais très grande - vous ne vous imaginez pas - très, très grande... insuccès... vis-à-vis de mon recueil de poèmes. La gloire de mon collègue s'est alors cognée a mon échec.
- la secrétaire: Votre collègue est assuré à vie, chez nous Association pour la Gloire.
- le poète: Et moi? Suis je assuré à mort?... Ah, mon Dieu! (un éclat lumineux). Mais, monsieur le directeur y aurait pu changer quelque chose... (Il est très triste)
- la secrétaire: N'etez-vous pas fier de votre métier?... Fier de votre métier?
- le poète: Je suis métier de mon fier.
- la secrétaire: Cher poète vous parlez avec une cohérente incohérence. A propos, ou etais-vous nommé comme poète?
- le poète: A Trifouilly-les-Oies.
- la secrétaire: Cette localité est-elle très éloignée?
- le poète: Non, elle se trouve à cinq km de Caen.
- la secrétaire: Donc, vous n'avez pas de quoi pleurer chaque jour, vous faites la navette de Caen à Trifouilly-les-Oies. Et le retour, bien sur. Moi, j'habite plus loin.
- le poète: Ou, exactement?
- la secrétaire: A Pétrouchoc.
- le poète: Mais, oui! Elle est très renommée, cette ville.
- la secrétaire: Bien sur. Celle ci se trouve à 6 km de Caen sur la direction de Québec.
- le poète: C'est vrai, vous travaillez dans une bled paumé.
- la secrétaire: Par bleu!
- le poète: Mieux: par blanc!
- la secrétaire: Je voyage toujours dans le car. Mais c'est dangereux. Trois fois, on à volé mon sac.
- le poète: Le même sac?
- la secrétaire: Imbécile!... Après mon arrivé à Caen, je me promène tous le soirs jusqu'à minuit.
- le poète: Mais c'est très imprudent! Ne craignez-vous pas d'être abordée?...
- la secrétaire: Nous, c'est tranquille. J'aime la poésie de la nature.
- la secrétaire: Jadis, j’ai déambulé dans le parc, jusqu’à une heure dans la nuit. Et rien...
- le poète: Oh, désolé!... Donc, vous n’avez pas réussi à vous faire violée...
- la secrétaire: Pas du tout!
- le poète: Je vous conseille d’essayer encore une fois. Mais n’oubliez pas, à l’avenir, soyez plus provocatrice... (il remue les fesses)
- la secrétaire: A l’heure où je vais dans le parc de Caen, il n’y a pas d’homme.
- le poète: Oh, madame... Pardon! Je le regrette profondément... Possédez-vous une Renault, pour circuler dans la ville?
- la secrétaire: Non, je n’ai pas de voiture. C’est ma fille qui en a une... d’enfant!
- le poète: Et vous l’utilisez vous aussi?
- la secrétaire: Ce n’était pas moi! Monsieur le directeur de l’Association Anonyme pour la Gloire.
- le poète: Le directeur? Mais quelle âge a-t-il?
- la secrétaire: Je ne suis pas sure: soixante, quinze, ou quatre-vingt-quinze, ou peut-être trente quinze ans.
- le poète: Donc, il est jeune, ou bien vieux.
- la secrétaire: Vous avez raison, mais pas toujours. Pourquoi etre vous mécontent?
- le poète: Non, je suis content!
- la secrétaire: Etes-vous méchant?
- le poète: Non, je suis chante.
- la secrétaire: Mais t’inquiète pas pour cela!
- le poète: Mais alors, je m’en quiète! Ce soir, c’est la fin de mes jours. Et chaque soirée de même. Au moins, à ce moment-ci, pourquoi ne censez-vous pas de taper à la machine. J’ai mal aux tampons d’ouate des oreilles.
- la secrétaire: Notre conversation, d’ailleurs, sans aucune valeur artistique, ni sociale, ni politique, je l’ai écrite pour d’histoire littéraire. Seulement des écrivains mineurs sont retenus par mon Association Anonyme, qui promulgue leur Gloire. Les célèbres très connus, sont devenus blâmés justement grâce à leur grandes qualités et leur diffusion dans le monde. Ils ne présentent plus de nouveauté. Je vous félicite, vous êtes un poète petite, obscén, et anodine. Bravo! Vous achevez enfin cette vie, devenue la vrai œuvre du poète-rue que vous êtes.

Bulgaria has traded geographical space with Paraguay. So that former South-American country is now safely esconced in Eastern Europe. And the Balkan nation now resides next to Brazil. "The transferred countries", say spokespersons, "are expecting to gain substantially from their unprecedented treks across the Atlantic Ocean. All changes were completed on a weekend in the dead of night. Officials of the two nations' governments said that they hoped members of the international media wouldn't notice or suspect anything out of the ordinary. "It would have just been too hard to have to explain," added officials. Their hopes were fulfilled.

Brazilians, always quick up the uptake, immediately smelled a rat when they overheard people in what had been neighboring Paraguay no longer speaking Spanish, the traditional language. Instead they spoke an unidentified foreign tongue, later found to be Bulgarian. This raised a lot of Brazilian eyebrows not to mention questions. But Portuguese being their language, they were not prepared linguistically to query the new neighbours.

When newspapers and tabloids in the former region of Bulgaria began printing in Spanish, nonresident Romanians, Albanians, and Macedonians started complaining that they couldn't read about what was going on anymore. And it caused a big stink leading to an investigation at the United Nations Security Council. They discovered the truth about the two countries having traded places. People in the Balkans and all over the world haven't been the same since. And in which seat in the General Assembly each countries' ambassador should sit was being haggled out still.

Members of the press are extensively interviewing diplomats and executives from both countries' governments. The only logical explanation for these long-distance moves offered has to do with getting lined up with "The New World Order". Politicians and ministers everywhere have bandied that phrase about in the recent years. And it hasn't always been in the best of terms. But neither group, nor any other, has satisfactorily defined what The New World Order is or what it means exactly, even generally. That includes the world of wrestling.

One brave Bulgarian diplomat did admit that his countrymen and women hadn't the faintest idea of what the phrase was supposed to mean, either. But the government felt strongly that it had better come up with some significant action relating to The New World Order so they wouldn't appear to be ignorant or out of step with other nations.

"So", continued the Bulgarian, "after many meetings and much debate and deliberation, and scores of delivered pizza suprimes, we came up with this idea of trading places with another country. The concept just seemed to click and mesh with what The New World Order had to mean. We, then, decided to try our idea. Getting other nations to go along with us proved our most difficult obstacle. Each sovereign state we approached had one or more very good reasons to stay put where they were. And it was mighty hard to argue with them. But then we called upon Paraguay. They were cordial and ripe for change. And we soon struck a deal".

Naturally, some Bulgarians were a tad reluctant to leave Europe. But when they learned about the nice warm climate at the new location, most citizens, even stick-in-the-muds, jumped at the chance. Truly, they had no choice in the matter. But it was hoped that everyone would go along, at least for the ride.

It took a while for those involved to secretly pack up belongings, move out, board an ocean liner, cross the sea, find a home on the new land, and move in. And remember, they had to do all that without benefit of a truck rental firm or of a moving van company. But the combined populations of both countries managed with a minimum amount of effort or delay. Sure, some Bulgarians cried and many carpéd, but otherwise, they and things went swimmingly.

Paraguans have since found their new climate in what used to be Bulgaria somewhat harsh compared to what used to be Bulgaria somewhat harsh compared to what they’d been used to in South America. But many Paraguans, especially the elderly and the overweight, had felt for years that South America was just too damn hot. Word of the two countries’ moves and how well their peoples have adjusted has reverberated around the globe. As a result, Uruguay, also a former Spanish-speaking neighbor of Brazil in South America, is soon trading places with Uganda from the African Continent. This should work out quite well. The theme being touted to their citizens is “We’re doing this all for ‘U’.” Though environments at those countries’ respective latitudes are quite different, in recent days, a great interest in llamas, an indigenous South American animal, has arisen among Ugandans thanks to a new movie, Llama Come Home, being widely shown there. As far as Uruguay is concerned, their attitude is, “Why shouldn’t we move out of South America if the Paraguans already have?”

There’s also a hot rumor now making newsroom rounds all over the Western Hemisphere: Vermont in the United States is clandestinely negotiating with Portugal to exchange places see advantages in this tentative geographical realignment. No one outsider these two governments, however, are privy to, or can figure out, what those mutual advantages might be. But the talk is that such a move seems to be in keeping with the meaning and thrust of The New World Order, daringly kicked off by Bulgaria just a short while ago.

In any case, ordering maple syrup and sugar candy in the future from what is today Portugal will seem strange, indeed. And getting olives and canned sardines from area that was once Vermont ought to be a bit oddball, too. But what is life, discounting heartache and trouble, if not constant, unpredictable change?

Aside from those countries’ moves, there doesn’t seem to be any others on the horizon relating to The New World Order. Of course, that doesn’t take into account what’s happening down at the New World Deli on 6th Street. They’ve just introduced a new menu order: a hot pastrami sandwich on pita bread with a side order of potato salad and beans.

1Dear Mr. Smarandache:

Non-sentence? Non-style? Literature out of everything? “circadia” has been waiting for its whole life! It has no grammar and no subject, but it’s an experiment that, like Victor Frankenstein’s, runs a risk of creating a beautiful new race of poems. I have ended up trying to explain “circadia” to everyone else who has read it, which is very frustrating. It doesn’t mean, it just is, and it has a few themes woven through it. As for anti­ language, some of the words in “circadia” aren’t even in English, and some have been here since the sixth century A.D. There are some phrases and even one simple clause, but forgive them. They exist for purposes of sound.

Found Poem: Degrees of Kindred

This sheet can be used for determining degree of kinship where there is no ancestry record of compilation. First, determine the common ancestor of the traced and the person in question. Then, compute the number of degrees from the person in question to the common ancestor, and then to the descendant.

ILLEGITIMACY IS SOMETHING WE SHOULD TALK ABOUT IN TERMS OF NOT HAVING IT.

NON STOP - NON POEZIE

Scrie

Scrie bur tulogie
Scrie non poezie
pentru ca toţi oamenii
şi muierile lumii
să fie poeţi
sub nămeţi.

De câte ori sunt întrebat de Condi

Unde-i Mondi
că-i luni.
Și nu știm
nici păr să zic
nici măr să cânt
nici făr să ofleaz
nici căr să tac
nici vâr să fluiier
nici oái să fredonez.
Căci eu pledez
pentru mardi
pentru non vers
porumb, priviri și
univers.
Sete de fete

Se aşterne peste noi
peste voi
peste oi peste creste
peste piscuri
peste vârfuri
prin târguri

se vând fustiţe
chiloţii la ochi
chiloţi de deochi.
Bere la halbă
şi-o chelneriţă albă.

Udvai frai şî mail-art cu cea Meilă

Spunea odată Meilă lu' Chiridonî
că lumea-i opacă
că toţi le ştiu pe toate.

Dar lumea-i doar
o leacă opacă
şi nu toţi le ştiu pe toate.

Aşa că teoria lui cea Meilă
n-a fost încununată
cu lauri
şi nici vară-sa nu ştia de ce?

Udvai frai!

THE NEW WORLD ORDER

Bulgaria has traded geographical space with Paraguay. So that former South-American country is now safely ensconced in Eastern Europe. And the Balkan nation now resides next to Brazil. “The transferred countries”, say spokespersons, “are expecting to gain substantially from their unprecedented treks across the Atlantic Ocean.

All changes were completed on a weekend in the dead of night. Officials of the two nations’ governments said that they hoped members of the international media wouldn’t notice or suspect anything out of the ordinary. “It would have just been too hard to have to explain,” added officials. Their hopes were fulfilled.

Brazilians, always quick up the uptake, immediately smelled a rat when they overheard people in what had been neighboring Paraguay no longer speaking Spanish, the traditional language. Instead they spoke an unidentified foreign tongue, later found to be Bulgarian. This raised a lot of Brazilian eyebrows not to mention questions. But Portuguese being their language, they were not prepared linguistically to query the new neighbours.

When newspapers and tabloids in the former region of Bulgaria began printing in Spanish, nonresident Romanians, Albanians, and Macedonians started complaining that they couldn’t read about what was going on anymore. And it caused a big stink leading to an investigation at the United Nations Security Council. They discovered the truth about the two countries having traded places. People in the Balkans and all over the world haven’t been the same since. And in which seat in the General Assembly each countries’ ambassador should sit was being hashed out still.
